

No Alternative To Acceptance American Loan

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(Reuters)—London newspapers of all shades of political opinion yesterday echoed the view expressed by the London Times that the Washington Anglo-American loan had been accepted by the House of Commons "because in the present emergency there appears to be no alternative without crippling national recovery."

The Times called the agreement a "economic Dunkirk."

UNDER THE LOAN terms, it said, "The required advance in industrial efficiency will be paid for large-scale mechanical equipment, total for a time at least amounting as much as during the war, and continued attention while the foundations of prosperity are laid."

International co-operation, which justifies the Washington proposals, must reach far beyond the Atlantic community most directly affected by the war.

Only the United States, the wealth, the sterling area, Europe, the other Americas and the East must equally gain, and not lose, by any system of world trade.

"NO PROJECT CAN conceivably endure which does not provide the chance, and indeed some guarantee, of prosperous employment for all the peoples. Only the United States, the wealth, the sterling area, Europe, the other Americas and the East must equally gain, and not lose, by any system of world trade."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian said that the Commons "like the cabinet before it, has accepted the American terms under duress."

"NONE OF THE government spokesmen pretended that the conditions gave as a reasonable basis of recovery. . . . The obligation to make all sterling arising out of current business, plus a part of the sterling war debt, freely convertible into dollars within a year will be as distressing to British as it will be profitable to American exporters. Nevertheless we shall have to do our best hoping that our friends will stand by us."

With the further loan which Canada has promised us and with some sympathetic patience on the part of our sterling partners, we should have a chance of getting through."

THE CONSERVATIVE Daily Telegraph said that parliament confronted with a choice between two evils, has preferred the lesser.

"The decision is a grim one, but the course of the debate removed all reasonable doubt that no other was possible, practical or realistic." The Daily Mail, Conservative, reiterated the argument.

former prime minister Churchill said that a coalition or Conservative government would have needed better terms.

"America is making Britain pay for her socialism," the newspaper said.

British Reinforce Strength on Java

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 14.—(AP)—A British spokesman said today two companies of the 3rd and 4th Gurkha Divisions and a battalion of the British 6th Airborne Division have arrived in Java to augment the military force engaged in restoring order.

Dr. Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting governor-general of the Dutch East Indies, today rejected Indonesian suggestions that the dispute over Indonesian demands for independence be referred to the United Nations Organization.

DR. VAN MOOK, on the eve of his departure for Holland, told a press conference his government feels the situation in the East Indies is a matter for direct discussion.

Tyler Kent Offers to Testify

Tyler Kent, clerk in the U.S. Embassy in London who was convicted in 1940 under the British Official Secrets Act, is shown with his mother, Mrs. Ann H. P. Kent of Washington, D.C., after his arrival in New York. Kent expressed a willingness to testify before the Pearl Harbor committee or any other legislative body because, he said, his side of the story had not been told. He said he thought he could "contribute something of value" to the Pearl Harbor Committee about this country's entry into the war.

No Prisoners

Army men who had witnessed the murder of comrades while prisoners of the Germans. Jesionek, however, is the first witness who claimed to be present when Meyer issued the orders against taking prisoners.

THE YOUTHFUL POLE told a tense court room of how he saw seven Canadian prisoners shot one by one at Meyer's headquarters in the Abbey Ardene, near Caen, Normandy, on the morning of June 8, 1944.

Jesionek's testimony was somewhat confused, in a statement he gave to the prosecution which was read yesterday. Jesionek was quoted as saying he had heard Meyer say to the seven Canadians: "I understood by this no prisoners were to be taken. They were to be shot."

TODAY, HOWEVER, JESIONEK testified on the witness stand that Meyer had actually said: "What should we do with these prisoners? They only eat our rations."

Witness then added he had not heard Meyer issue orders to another German officer to have the Canadians shot.

In spite of minor contradictions in his evidence, Jesionek's testimony provided some of the grimest chapter of the five-day trial.

HE SAID THE CANADIAN prisoners, interrogated earlier by the German officer, were taken to the Abbey Ardene, where Meyer had his headquarters. Jesionek said that each Canadian went out into the park and added: "The place was full of blood."

Jesionek served at Meyer's headquarters during the early days of the Normandy fighting. When crossed-examined by Lt. Col. Bruce MacDonald of Windsor, Ont. in court, Jesionek said he saw bodies lying at the entrance of the park and added: "The place was full of blood."

British witness testified that on the morning of June 8 he was at German regimental headquarters near Aubry or Ardene in an old mill.

"I SAW SEVEN CANADIAN prisoners led to my regimental headquarters," witness said. "There were two sentries with them and the prisoners were kept in a stable that came into the abbey on the right. They were placed in a stable."

Jesionek, who was watching from a pool in the centre of the Abbey park, saw a German lieutenant or captain interrogating the Canadians. He spoke to them in English and periodically laughed, he said, but the prisoners did not seem to be sharing the joke.

"Tears came to one Canadian's eyes as the officer questioned him and he said: 'I understand the place was full of blood,'" Jesionek said.

A CORPORAL removed the papers from the prisoners and indicated to them they would have to go through the entry into the park.

As each name was called, a Canadian would have to walk from the stable entrance to the entry into the park. There was a little door through which some of them went.

Claims "Colossal Impudence"
As MP's Ponder Raise in Pay

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—(CP)—Members of the Commons tackled yesterday the delicate task of voting themselves an increase in their indemnity and it was indicated the legislation would pass with slight opposition.

No Harmony

Anna Jeffery, above, RKO actress, does all right as a screen singer, but her personal life seems to have struck a sour note, as she has filed suit in Los Angeles for divorce from Capt. Robert Stevens, whom she married eight months ago.

MEMBERS GENERALLY were content to let the party leaders do the talking on the first stages of the legislation, which will provide a $2,000 allowance, payable on a year-to-year basis. However, Angus Macdonald (CCF-Vancouver East) and H. W. Herridge (People's CCF-Kootenay West) expressed opposition.

Mr. J. Caldwell, CCF leader, supported the legislation and John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, indicated their approval by facilitating the advancement of the bill so it could be debated Friday. Other support came from Col. Alan Cockeram (PC-York South) and J. F. Poulin (Ind. L.-Tremisouane).

THE MEASURE, sponsored by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, will mean that members of the Senate and the Commons will receive their present $4,000 indemnity and $2,000 a year for expenses incidental to their duties as members of parliament.

The expense allowance will not be subject to income tax as far as private members of the Commons are concerned. It will be taxable for members of the Senate, the official leader of the opposition—Mr. Bracken—and members of the cabinet.

MR. KING STRESSED the need for increased payments to members in order to attract the right men to politics.

Because the allowance is payable on a yearly basis at the end of each calendar year, it was learned that members will receive only one-third of the $2,000 this year. The amount began Sept. 6 and the legislation was made retroactive to that date.

THE ALLOWANCE will be subject to deductions as in the case of indemnities. A member of the Commons or of the 96-seat Senate, who is absent more than 15 sitting days in a session, forfeits $25 a day of his indemnity for each additional day absent. In the case of the allowance the members will forfeit $12.50 a day for each additional day absent.

Mr. Macdonald described the move to authorize the increase as "colossal impudence" so the part of the Commons. He could not conceive anything more unwise for parliament to do at a time when nothing had been done to relieve the distress among the great mass of the people of the country.

MR. HERRIDGE said he was opposed to a tax-exempt allowance and to the payment of any allowance to relation.

THE INDEMNITY of members had remained unchanged from 1910 despite the increase in responsibility.

Runs Through Fire to Save Baby Sister $400 for Each Child

Here at four is Johnnie Mancuso, here with his baby sister, Blanche, 18 months, whom he rescued by dashing through flames when fire gutted their home. Hearing shouts of "Fire! Fire!" from Johnny, Mrs. Mancuso said, she turned to see her son with his sister in his arms come through a sheet of flame. The boy's face was blackened by the smoke.

Here at four is Johnnie Mancuso, here with his baby sister, Blanche, 18 months, whom he rescued by dashing through flames when fire gutted their home. Hearing shouts of "Fire! Fire!" from Johnny, Mrs. Mancuso said, she turned to see her son with his sister in his arms come through a sheet of flame. The boy's face was blackened by the smoke.

THE INCREASE in work now placed on the shoulders of members. In these days parliament needed men of wide experience, men who were prepared to give a considerable portion of their time to the study of questions, as well as to speaking in respect of them.

THOSE WHO CAME to parliament not only had obligations as legislators; they also were trustees of the funds belonging to the country.

Mr. Caldwell disagreed with his deskmate, Mr. Macdonald, and pointed to the fact that the national CCF convention in Montreal last year had approved a resolution calling for increased indemnities for members of parliament. The resolution had been moved by a small delegation from a point not represented in the Commons by the CCF.

HE FELT the same way about the conditions of the people as Mr. Macdonald and if he felt that the defeat of the allowance bill would assist them he would oppose it. However, members of parliament were moving slowly into debt and because of this they were losing their effectiveness.

Income Taxation to Return
To Former Deduction Basis

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—(CP)—A new income tax structure was worked out before the budget was brought down Oct. 12, but the government decided to continue for the year the practice of straight percentage deductions. Finance Minister Liley said yesterday in the Commons.

MR. LILEY did not disclose details of the new structure, but said that fundamentally the government will return to the principle of allowing exemptions for children to take the form of deductions from income rather than deductions from taxes as at present.

In pre-war years, taxpayers were allowed to deduct $400 from income for each child. In the war years the act was changed to make the deduction for each child a deduction of $108 from the tax.

HE DID NOT INDICATE whether the new structure would be continued in the next budget, but said it would have to take into account the payment of family allowances. Exemptions for children would be reduced by the amount of allowances received.

Mr. Liley made the statement while the commons debated an act to amend the Income Tax Act to provide for the changes announced in the budget. The bill is among the last scheduled to be dealt with before prorogation, expected by most members to come Saturday.

SENATOR Wartari Robertson, government leader in the senate, said it was hoped the session would provide for the changes announced in the budget. His information was that a new session would be called for late February or early March.

The income tax bill was taken up after the Commons had advanced to second reading legislation providing for a $2,000 annual expense allowance for members of the Senate and the Commons, who now receive an indemnity of $4,000. The allowance will be non-taxable except in the case of senators, members of the cabinet and of the official opposition leader, John Bracken, head of the Progressive Conservative party.

AT THE NIGHT SITTING the income tax bill was passed and a bill to amend the National Housing Act was put through committee of the whole and given third reading. Estimates of the justice department and of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were passed, members sitting an hour beyond the usual 11 o'clock adjournment to complete the work.

When the house opened Defence Minister Abbott announced that the hospital ship Nelson and Letitia will be used early in the new year in bringing British war brides to Canada.

REPLYING TO Jean Levesque (L.-Montreal), Mr. Liley said there would be much difference of opinion as to whether the exemption policy in the new tax structure would be the right one to follow.

"However, we have had continual trouble with this system of tax credits for children, because, time after time, members have argued that the tax credit per child was not sufficient for its support," said Mr. Liley. "The answer is that it was never intended to be sufficient to support a child."

"IT WOULD MEAN that if you had a two per cent income tax instead of a 40 per cent income tax the tax credit would perhaps be only $10 and yet the parents would be much better off."

It was found in a great number of cases that the $108 tax credit was greater than the $400 deduction from income.

However, he was "disposed to agree with the general principle that deduction from income should be taken as the basis of allowances for children."

WHEN I SAY that I accept the principle, I want to stress that it will be with qualifications because I would not feel like going back to a system under which people with high incomes got an unequalled deduction from their incomes of so much per child for income tax purposes.

Ottawa Briefs

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—(CP)—The government spent $28,500 on alterations to the travelling building in Winnipeg which was leased to provide office space for the Unemployment Insurance Commission. It was reported in the commons yesterday in reply to questions by F. S. Zapf (CCF-Dauphin). Rental on the building is $25,000 a year.

Shipments of feed wheat from western to eastern Canada for the first 11 months of this year totalled 18,968,128 bushels, compared with 22,524,002 bushels for the year 1944. Agriculture Minister Gardiner said.

Commons Passes
Changes in Tax
In 1946 Budget

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—(CP)—The Commons last night gave final reading to a bill amending the 1946 income tax act in accordance with changes announced in the budget Oct. 12.

No major amendments were made in addition to those provided for in the budget, which amounted to a flat 16 per cent reduction in personal income tax.

The bill was the last of four heard on budget resolutions and dealt with in the last two days.

Claims Uranium
Found in Sask.

REGINA, Dec. 14.—(CP)—Saskatchewan Minister J. L. Phelps of Saskatchewan said yesterday his department had received a preliminary report confirming the discovery of uranium-bearing ore near Goldfields from the federal geological survey party which surveyed the area.

During the war a geophysical method of locating the ore was developed. The Saskatchewan occurrence was discovered in 1935 in the area between Cornwall and Fishpool Bays, about five miles east of Goldfields.

Saskatchewan last summer asked the federal government to apply the geophysical method to the Goldfields area in an effort to determine the extent of the pitchblende occurrence.

Mr. Phelps said he had not yet studied the preliminary report in detail.

Alberta Govt. Gives Support To Water Plan

HANNA, Alta., Dec. 14.—(CP)—Assurance that the provincial government will give full support to an extensive irrigation scheme in east central Alberta was given members of the East Central Irrigation Association at its annual meeting here Wednesday when the association's officers, headed by James A. Cameron, Youngstown, president, were unanimously returned to office.

MORE THAN 400 farmers, ranchers and businessmen of the 4,000-100 acre area braved sub-zero weather to attend the meeting.

Speakers for the provincial government were Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines; Hon. G. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs; and Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health. All said the provincial government was "in full accord with the scheme" and that every effort would be made to implement it.

MEMBERS ENDORSED unanimously a resolution calling on the federal and provincial governments to implement the scheme "early in 1946 as a reconstruction project." E. I. Gray, director of water development for the Prairie Farmers' Rehabilitation Act, outlined the proposed scheme under which the irrigation project would be implemented. A dam in the Red Deer river near Buffalo Lake would be a key feature of the scheme. The Buffalo Lake was described as "the finest storage basin in western Canada."

MR. GRAY SAID plans and recommendations for the dam, main canal and reservoirs had already been sent to Ottawa as a reconstruction project.

Fragment of Flag Saved

A tiny piece of the United States flag which flew over Corregidor was saved from the Japanese by an American prisoner, now dead, and was brought back to this country by Col. Delbert Aumus, right, of Schenectady, N.Y. He received the fragment from Col. Paul D. Bunker, who died in a prison camp on Formosa, and saved it during three years of imprisonment by sewing it under a false patch on the cuff of a shirt. Colonel Aumus is shown handing fragment to Secretary of War Robert F. Patterson. Shirt on which it was sewn is on table.

TOAST IS NO LESS
FATTENING THAN
FRESH BREAD

Many people on diets to reduce their weights believe that if they eat toast they get fewer calories than they would get in the same amount of bread. But this is a fallacy, nutritionists tell us. They say a slice of whole-wheat bread has a caloric value of 75, and that the same weight of whole-wheat toast has about 85 calories. Toasting drives out water from the bread, making it weigh less, so it takes more toast to weigh an ounce, and thus it contains more food value and caloric units per ounce. So toast is not less fattening than fresh bread; it is more so.

Asks Better Terms For American Loan

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(Reuters)—In a maiden speech during debate yesterday on the Anglo-American loan agreement in the House of Commons, Max Aitken, son of Lord Beaverbrook and Conservative member, suggested that Hugh Dalton, chancellor of the exchequer, should "go over the heads of the experts and make immediate contact with the American government to get better terms."

"In my experience Americans admire toughness," Mr. Aitken declared. "I feel that if we now said 'all right, we won't take the loan but we will pull our belts in and hold out,' then in three months time the Americans, with their war-hungry mouths almost full up with goods, would ask us: 'what are your terms?'"

MR. AITKEN, a group captain in the Royal Air Force during the war, said: "I believe that if the Empire were now asked to rally round this country we would be able to tide over this desperate period and not have to take this disastrous loan."

He warned that "trouble is coming. If we default on this loan as is bound to happen in the opinion of many eminent economists."

RCAF Starts Its Recruiting Early in 1946

By P. W. DEMPSON

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—Recruiting for Canada's permanent air force, to consist of 20,000 personnel, will start early in 1946, it was learned today.

Recruiting campaigns for the other services are not expected to get under way until late in the spring.

TO DATE, MORE than 3,000 Canadians have signed up with the post-war force. The campaign to be launched next month will be to persuade RCAF veterans to remain in the service or to re-enlist if they have already been demobilized.

If the full complement of 20,000 men is not obtained before the summer, the air force will then start recruiting new blood—air minded young men who were not old enough to enlist during the war.

Qualified volunteers for the permanent navy-to-be made up of 10,000 men—are now being accepted. These include veterans and men who have had no previous navy experience. A campaign to induce young men to enlist has not yet been started and is not likely to be launched for several months.

DEMobilization of navy personnel is still to be carried on, it was pointed out, and until the job is finished the navy is reluctant to conduct a recruiting campaign. Demobilization is expected to be completed by February 28.

The army with an interim force scheduled for the first two post-war years, rather than a permanent peace-time army, is in a somewhat different position. Eventually it will have a peace-time strength of 25,000, after its occupational and other duties which evolved from the war has been completed.

Recruiting plans for the army are considerably less definite than those for the other services, although plans are underway to begin recruiting for the permanent force in the spring. The army still has a large retraining and demobilization program on its hands.

LARGE RESERVE organizations over and above the authorized allowances for the permanent force are planned by all the three services.

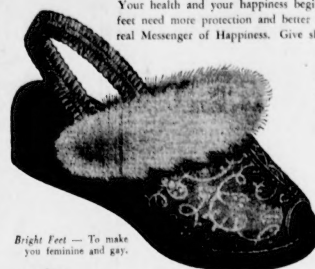

Questions of pay and other matters which will have an important bearing on the appeal the services have for peace-time careers are under study at Ottawa.

What the future of the women's services is to be is not yet definite, but it has been mentioned on several occasions that the women will have no place in the peace-time armed forces. The national defence department has stated the WACNS, RCAF (W) and CWAF (W) will be disbanded, except for small number considered to be "absolutely necessary."

A classification of existing medical and health films has been completed during the past year by the National Film Board.

Worse Before Better

Grim Picture Is Presented
By Canadian Housing Survey

By The Canadian Press

Thousands of men and women who served with Canadian armed forces have had a constant dream during days of meagre military life—the pleasant vision of a home. But that dream shattered—or remained still a dream—when they returned home to discover the critical housing problems confronting all Canada.

INSTEAD of finding an abode, they discovered they must be content with anything, provided it had a roof and four walls. Instead of returning to that dream home on Clwy street, many are living in a room or two—if they have been fortunate.

Some lucky ones live in summer cottages, temporarily insulated against the cold of winter. Some have a room with bed and two windows. This keeps in bathhouse or bureau drawers in the style of the Moon Mullins comic strip character, Kaye.

A CANADIAN PRESS survey of problems confronting veterans and families of servicemen still overseas does not present a bright picture.

baracks formerly used by the services has helped some. At Charlottetown, airport buildings have provided quarters for nearly 100 families. About 80 families are sheltered in Norwegian air force buildings at Toronto. Forty families moved into CWAC barracks at Kitchener, Ont., and in Winnipeg an old immigration department building is home to 34 families.

Great Canadian population local point, Montreal has countless servicemen and their families presently homeless and at least 1,000 are living in quarters urgently needing repair. Some 4,000 homes are under construction at present by private enterprises and will alleviate the pressure.

AVAILABLE accommodation for 600 couples at St. Paul's, Montreal, premises of a munitions plant 21 miles east of Montreal, only has drawn 16 applications. Though complete facilities are available and rates of $9 a week per person includes room and 21 meals and $100 pass for room and 13 meals, the vacancies are blamed on lack of transportation to the city.

Applications totalling more than 5,000 are unfilled in Toronto where close to 2,000 veterans and 2,000 women's families seek homes. Wartime Housing Limited is constructing 600 houses, in nearby townships but authorities promise no immediate relief to the acute situation.

IN MANY INSTANCES authorities list disheartening tales of broken homes and delinquent children directly resulting from the attempt to house "too many people in too few homes."

Returning veterans have been bitter in their criticism of failure to provide them with adequate housing. "Every township brings more grief."

THOUSANDS of veterans entering the training and re-establishment institute at London, Ont., forced civic officials to press into service all buildings in the vicinity. Approximately 800 veterans and soldiers families seek homes in Hamilton and more than 300 families need shelter in St. Catharines.

The Winnipeg city housing registry lists more than 900 applications. Six hundred servicemen's families need homes in Regina. Progress has been made in Edmonton since withdrawal of many United States troops, but about 800 veterans are due to enter University of Alberta in January adding again to the number of unaccompanied families.

OVER 3500 DISCHARGED servicemen at Vancouver applied for homes in November, of which 800 were placed temporarily. At Victoria 425 families are in urgent need of quarters. Hundreds of servicemen settling in the rich fruit-growing British Columbia Okanagan valley have found even single rooms unavailable.

The number of homeless increases constantly and the only solution remaining is to "build more houses with which to do so."

industry could then be taken over at bankrupt prices.

It seems probable that in future the price of British coal will be fixed. If the government cares to carry out this policy with delivery, it is intent that it can alter the geographical distribution of British industry. It is clear that by altering the price of coal in any particular zone, the government can remove or create a distressed area with one stroke of the pen.

MR. SHINWELL, Minister of Fuel and Power, so far is not getting the extra $300,000,000 of coal for which he has pledged the mining this winter. It seems that, although the miners have obtained a political triumph, nationalization of their industry has not yet crossed the mine to work any harder now that they are going to become servants of the government.

Something more is needed. The high rate of income tax to which coal miners are now subject, is probably the single factor in causing absenteeism among them.

According to a government spokesman, improvement will come about by two things, both of which operate at long range.

First, amalgamation of pits, previously privately owned, on proper geographical lines will shore up the industry. Second, the coal, coupled with an improved underground layout achieved with the aid of vast state expenditure, must eventually step output per man at long range.

SECOND, coal must no longer be treated as a fuel to be inefficiently burned in the raw state. Clearly, coal is a valuable raw material from which a range of chemicals and valuable by-products must be extracted. The solid which is finally left will be sold as smokeless fuel. When coal is burned in the raw state, the emission of smoke is an enormous community nuisance.

Thus it is interesting to note that recently the City of London decided to explore the possibility of prohibiting the burning of raw coal in certain areas. In taking this lead, London is following the lead of New York, where the emission of black smoke has been a penal offense for many years.

IN CONNECTION with the present treatment and processing of coal, the low-temperature carbonization industry is now coming to the fore. These manufacturers of smokeless fuels, such as "Cokelet," claim that when coal is carbonized at low temperatures, the yield of valuable by-products on obtained is ten times greater than if the coal is carbonized at high temperatures in coke ovens or gas works. Such by-products include plastics, disinfectants, betanols, solvents and a whole range of chemical products.

At the recent annual luncheon of the Institute of Fuel and Power, the president, Dr. Smith, indicated that the coal industry was extremely interested in the possibility of atomic energy replacing coal as a source of fuel and power. Mr. Smith replied that he must take notice of this important suggestion as it would clearly reduce the amount of compensation properly payable to the coal owners when their industry was nationalized.

Municipal Votes Canadian Occupation Zone Elections Called in Spring

Brig Hound

Into the brig went Capriccio, a brown cocker spaniel, when it was discovered that the pup had been smuggled aboard the cruiser Blücher in the Havre, France, by Seymour Gittman of New York, a home-bound Army aviator. Alvin, Capriccio came to from behind the bars at the House docks in New York.

Monetary Pact Gains Approval Of House Body

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—(CP)—The Commons Banking Committee last night passed with two more amendments a bill providing for Canada's ratification of the Bretton Woods International Monetary Agreement.

THE BILL was finally approved by the committee with Selwyn Lloyd, Social Credit leader, asking that the vote be recorded "no division."

"I would like to be recorded as against the whole thing," he said.

AMENDMENTS, suggested by King Haines (PC-BC, John Albert) and Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto) clarified the right to use gold as part of Canada's deposit with the International Monetary Fund and also required annual reports on Canada's participation to be made to parliament.

At an earlier session a motion sponsored by Social Credit members to have ratification of the agreement referred to the next session of parliament was defeated by order.

HUGHES CLEVER (L-Hall), committee chairman, stated that the committee was compelled to adopt the bill, either with or without amendments, or to reject it but it could not refer it to another session of parliament.

Following the chairman's ruling, Victor Quirch (SC-Asquith) and John Blackmore (SC-Lebanon) urged their opposition to the agreement. At earlier sessions, J. C. Caldwell, PC leader, had said he was prepared to support the measure.

MR. QUENCH said failure of the government to bring on the ratification of the agreement, he discussed earlier had made it impossible for members to feel any sense of the story. The only witness called had been Louis Roussin, a wheat exchange control board official. Mr. Quench paid tribute to Mr. Roussin's clear and concise explanation but he had prevented only the favorable side of the agreement.

He was more convinced than ever that our currency and loans are better administered," Mr. Quench said.

IT WAS CLEAR that only amendments would benefit and that a form of the gold standard would be retained. Trade experts established within a country in favor of another nation should be allowed to cover imports and exports of another nation should be accepted in cover imports for the latter.

Under the agreement gold would be the only commodity in possession for members to hold in any form of the story.

MR. BLACKMORE also referred to the clause of the agreement which was nothing in the agreement which would cancel the private status of wheat, and there also was no provision against economic warfare.

He said he saw a strong and powerful role service organization being built into the agreement.

U.S. to Sponsor Trade Meeting In Near Future

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—(CP)—Word from Washington that the United States has invited 14 countries, including Canada, to a round-table discussion designed to remove tariff barriers and expand world trade.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD Canada would accept the invitation to participate in such a conference. Members of the government from Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his cabinet along have been expressing views in favor of lower tariffs and this latest move by the United States is an important step in that direction.

A dispatch from Washington said the countries invited are: Canada, Brazil, Australia, Cuba, New Zealand, Belgium, Holland, Czechoslovakia, South Africa and India. The meeting might be held in Washington or New York, the United States is the sponsoring power.

THE ROUND-TABLE discussion would be used to consider when the full-dress United Nations trade and employment conference begins, probably next spring.

Plans already have been made by Trade Minister Mackenzie King and Agriculture Minister Gardiner to visit Britain shortly after parliament opens to study the United Kingdom's requirements of Canadian goods during the next two years. The invitation by the United States to the round-table conference is not expected to delay their visit.

A SUGGESTION that the round-table discussion would be covering the same grounds as the full-dress United Nations trade conference, brought the explanation from a senior government official here that one would fit into the other.

A white paper tabled Wednesday in the Commons containing United States proposals for the expansion of world trade and employment conference, members of parliament here an idea of the scope of these proposals. The opinion here seems to be that it will take some time to mould the opinion of the United Nations into uniformity and any preparation in the way of tariff agreements in advance would be advantageous.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—An army buck private yesterday stole the show at a congressional hearing on universal military training with a scathing attack on "brass hats" and "Pentagon Boy Scouts."

Beet Sugar Price Can Be Adjusted

Effective Thursday retailers will be permitted to add to their lawful ceiling price on beet sugar the actual increase in cost charged by their suppliers, providing such increase does not exceed the ceiling. In computing the selling prices of beet sugar, retailers will be governed by the fractional cent order, and these adjustments should not affect the retail prices on smaller units.

MR. DROGER said this information was forwarded by wire to A. C. Mackay, secretary of the Alberta provincial board RMA, from the Dominion office of the RMA at Toronto.

Prior to this adjustment the retailer had been absorbing a direct loss which had not been the case with manufacturers who were allowed an increase. It was explained. It was said the retailer could not possibly absorb a further squeeze on this commodity due to the low retail markup for sugar.

Mr. Droger and credit for bringing this adjustment about was due to the representations made by A. Shepley, food trades liaison officer for the WFTB, W. L. MacQuarrie, Saskatchewan secretary of the RMA; George Matthews, British Columbia secretary of the RMA, and Mr. Mackay.

The only European country with adequate food supplies is Germany and it lacks corn for its pigs.

WHILE AT LEAST six generals, several admirals and more than a dozen colonels sat by and listened, the GI witness, George L. Mark of Cleveland, let loose his blast at the high command after assurances from acting chairman Ewing Thompson (Dem-Tex) that he would be protected from any possible punishment as a result.

Mark, 36-year-old father of three children, was a surprise witness before the house of representatives military committee. He was called out of turn and four major general officers already on the stand were invited to take a back seat, so he could finish in time to leave for camp. He said he was in the line of duty to be discharged today. He recently testified on demobilization before a senate committee.

AFTER BRIEFLY citing his military record—he was drafted 10 months ago and is stationed at his present post—Mark launched into his prepared speech and told the committee why he didn't think Congress should adopt universal military training. He testified at his own request.

But first he threw the committee and the spectators into an uproar by pointing to his gleaming bald head and telling that he had been a hair tonic salesman before he was drafted.

UNIVERSAL MILITARY training, he asserted, was the brainchild of "the Pentagon Boy Scouts," the "brass hats" and the "Pentagon phonyes of the Pentagon Canteen."

"The Pentagon building in nearby Virginia is headquarters of the department," he said, "wanted universal training because they want a large army to retain the officers."

Bags of Money Needed to Go Shopping in Shanghai

Bags of money are needed when you go shopping in Shanghai, these days, owing to the skyrocketing inflation in China. A Canadian woman, Mrs. G. T. Slade, right, with her husband, Rev. G. T. Slade, and son and daughter, Ronald and Norma, have just returned after two years' imprisonment in a Japanese prison. A $10,000 bill is worth 6.00 cents.

Military Institute Officers Welcome Colonel E. T. Snow

Officers of the Edmonton Military Institute gathered at a mess dinner in the Prince of Wales Armory on Wednesday evening to greet the new district officer commanding, Col. E. T. Snow, and to bid farewell to the district's former chief, Brig. M. F. W. Harvey, V.C., M.C.

E. Brown presented Brig. Harvey with a watch and the Wingard replied suitably to the local colonel's wish.

Col. Snow greeted the institute in the same humorous vein as the other speakers.

He was assured, "if they did, they wouldn't be in the army. They're in the army as officers because they make a fight in the competitive game."

having to fight our battles short-handed as we did.

There is no sense in trying to blame anyone for this. But there is certainly every reason why we should take a lesson from our past experience and now that the show is over, see that we don't make the same mistakes again.

I HOPE, LIKE EVERY other Canadian, that we have seen the last of war. But I remember that people thought that they had seen the last of war when the surrender documents were signed in 1918. I know that one of the reasons this began was because we refused to face facts during the 1930's when Germany and Italy and Japan started their short-lived careers of aggression.

I know that the reason we did not nip their exploits in the bud was because we had convinced ourselves that the world was too civilized and experienced over to become involved in war again—because we were unprepared at a time when a little preparedness would have enabled us to have side-tracked Hitler's ambitions before they became too big to be pushed aside.

ONCE WAR IS DECLARED there is no time, not is it always expedient, to throw out the question of who shall "lead the band." As it stands at present the government of this country has the right to involve this country in a war and then leave it to the individual conscience to decide who shall man the guns, drive the tanks, fly the airplanes and sail the ships. It is most unfair to leave such an important question to the individual conscience—such as action drama from a country's first men—because it is the unfeeling and the idealistic who answer the call and leave the selfish to stay at home and reap the profits and reproduce their own kind.

If a country has the right to declare war on a nation—it has a duty to fight that war as a nation—not as individuals. If the government of a country knows that when they declare war they are going to have to fight the war as a nation—not as individuals—then the question is not who shall fight, but shall the country declare war.

IN OTHER WORDS, if the government knows that the moment it declares war every citizen of that country is to be mobilized and assigned to the job he is best fitted to do, then the government has
